

The Tzolk'in Clock – Transformer Trecena

Here is a link to my new book: The Twenty Trecenas of the Tzolk'in. Here is a link to my video about the book. Here is a link to my Facebook page, the best way to contact me.

The Tzolk'in Clock should be viewed as though you are sitting in the center, facing east. The fire in the center is your Akbal. Each of the four corners and four faces folds up, so you are surrounded by eight walls, like in a hoogan. The front face is east, the back face is west. The Transformer trecena begins the north face of the Tzolk'in Clock, the left side of your mind (right side of your brain) and your heart chakra. This trecena begins our travel around the veil between our awake self and asleep self (the place where our consciousness goes when we sleep) as we begin the north face of the Tzolk'in Clock.

The east face of the Tzolk'in Clock is about thought (crocodile), the north face is about our right brain (transformer), the west face is about the collective morals (monkey), and the south face is about our left brain (wisdom). The Tzolk'in Clock is a way to transform our lives from “chasing the dollar” on the Gregorian calendar to “using your spiritual self to deliver your reality”. Using the Tzolk'in Clock, you have your reality presented to you. Chasing materialistic wealth on the Gregorian calendar takes a lot of external energy. Creating your reality with spiritual time is done with your thoughts and consciousness surrounded by calm, placid water. So be mindful of how, when and where you choose to put your energy.

This trecena begins our journey into the left side of the mind (right side of the brain). There is no ego on this side of the Tzolk'in Clock. Each night, when we fall asleep, our consciousness leaves the prison of our physical selves. It's during the north face of the Tzolk'in Clock that our spiritual selves work on the seeds we planted on the east face of the Tzolk'in Clock.

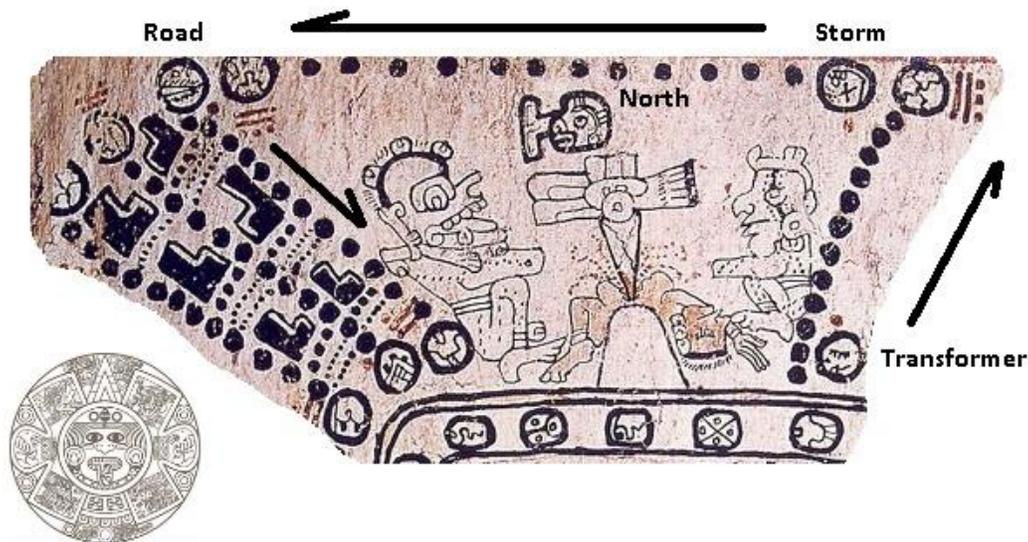

This is a good time to consider who is the ruler of our collective consciousness? Looking outward at human existence, is there something that could change? Do we have any control over our future generations? Every Tzolk'in round our collective consciousness is updated on 8-Monkey, on the west face of the Tzolk'in Clock. The Transformer trecena is a good time to remember our intentions set the previous 8-Monkey and prepare the next update.

The north face of the Tzolk'in Clock is when and where your individual spirits that make up your consciousness go their separate ways. They scatter your intentions into the collective consciousness like seeds in the wind. Each morning, when you wake up, they all return, the veil is closed, and your consciousness contained. Your awake self is back in control. The Tzolk'in Clock is all about using the collective consciousness to create your physical reality.

The north face of the Tzolk'in Clock is the time to weave your dreams into reality. With all the power of our creator, imagine your reality as you want it to be. This is the time to build on the seeds that you planted on the east face of the Tzolk'in Clock. Use your intuition to know what really can become reality and focus your spiritual intentions on those fertile plants.

The north face of the Tzolk'in Clock starts with the transformer intention. This is the corner stone of the north face, just as monkey is the corner stone of the west face, wisdom is the corner stone of the south face, and crocodile is the corner stone of the east face. The transformer energy is carried throughout the north face and the north-west corner. The north face is the veil between our enslaved conscious self and our freed collective conscious self. Every night when you fall asleep, your consciousness passes through the north face veil of the Tzolk'in Clock. Knowing where your consciousness goes every time you sleep, answers the same question as to where we came from before being born and where we go after death. The Tzolk'in Clock shows the answer.

Many people would think this is an image of a painful sacrifice. Just as we've been told the Aztec sun calendar is thirsty for human blood, however the opposite is true for both. This image on the north face of the Tzolk'in Clock, as depicted in the Madrid codex, is showing yourself being released from your body, as you do every time you sleep and ultimately death. (Note: birth is represented in this image to the discerning eye.) The Aztec sun calendar shows mother earth talking to you, as you read this, since collectively, we are remembering her spiritual time. Mother earth is talking to us now. We are the people she is speaking to. This is the time to hear her words.

Our seeds are being grown in our collective consciousness during the north face of the Tzolk'in Clock. This is the time that your spiritual self helps create your physical self's reality. We are not alone in this realm; we are collectively working together. Yet, the definition of "we" in that sentence is different than the physical "we". Consider the spirits that make up your consciousness as individual as all the cells of your body going different places and then reunite the moment you wake up. The north face of the Tzolk'in Clock represents the veil to this place.

This is where trust and faith come into play. Do you trust your spiritual self? Also, do trust that obstacles are presented to help you find your reality? Using the Tzolk'in Clock and trusting your spiritual self to bring your physical self reality is the key to creating your reality. Manifesting reality is just one aspect of this humanistic, spiritual timekeeper.

North Face Health Tip: Prepare for the upcoming Road trecena on the north face of the Tzolk'in Clock. Humans are designed to walk at least 10-15 minutes in a path, preferably on grass. This is important for your spiritual self to create your destiny. It gives momentum to the spiritual farming process. Walking gives a boost of energy with each step to all the organs in your body. It has the same effect on your spiritual energy and connects with mother earth's energy. This is free natural energy available for your body, spirit and mind.

Transformer trecena on the Tzolk'in Clock

1 Transformer	Today begins the north face, a to explore your other world, your spiritual world. The Maya knew this world very well and there was a thinner veil between it and their physical selves. Collectively, they could live in this realm, and perhaps still do.
2 Deer	After exploring the "other" world yesterday, today needs the strength and stability of a deer. These next few trecenas are all about the "other" world.
3 Star	You have companions in the spiritual realm. Share yourself with them as you sleep. Remember them when you wake up.
4 Water	This is the day that your physical self is immersed into the spiritual realm but is necessary for spiritual growth.
5 Dog	A dog follows your every move. He sleeps close to you and protects you. He loves going places with you and starts jumping and kissing you, when you put on shoes to go for a walk. That's the kind of energy of today. These next days, until 13 Storm are the days to disconnect with your daily obligations. Take your dog energy with you. Hold his leash with your hand.
6 Monkey	A day to contemplate misconceptions in life. This is a good day to know what is going on truthfully and what is being deceptive. Trust your instincts.
7 Road	Walk with only those you trust today, especially in the spiritual realm.
8 Reed	Enhance what is important in your life, diminish what is not. Your seeds are turning into plants. Inspect them and help them grow.
9 Jaguar	The fertile power of physical energy is strong today. You get a good sense of which plants are growing, and you feel strength from knowing.
10 Eagle	Let negativity dissolve. Wash your hands of it.
11 Wisdom	Meditate about your physical reality, in the calm placid waters of your spiritual being. Give guidance to the fertile fields growing.
12 Earth(quake)	Center your heart as your spiritual self creates your future reality.
13 Flint	A mental and heartfelt image of your new self is formed, as the fruit of this trecena. Relax and enjoy your bountiful produce that will soon be reality.

Tracking a newborn's time on the Tzolk'in

It's simple to count days with the Tzolk'in. For instance, you look forward to their 260th day, to celebrate their energy. Then, it's easy to track and congratulate them on 300, 400, etc. Then its 520 days and their 2nd Tzolk'in birthday, and you continue to remember to congratulate them for turning 600 days, too. The sense of years becomes less important when everyday becomes a birthday celebration. It's also fun when people ask you their age and you give it to them in days. Watch as they try to convert it.

Four suits of cards and four directions?

It's interesting that a deck of cards is four suits of 13, or four trecenas. Perhaps each of the suits (clubs, spades, diamonds, and hearts) represents each of the four directions. It would be nice to play a deck showing transformer, monkey, wisdom and crocodile. Why stop there. Consider a new deck using all twenty trecenas. This deck would have 260 cards instead of just 52. Would that be considered "playing with a full deck?" Which suit would you pair the cornerstones of the Tzolk'in Clock?

East face cornerstone:	Crocodile	club	spade	heart	or diamond
North face cornerstone:	Transformer	spade	heart	diamond	or club
West face cornerstone:	Monkey	heart	diamond	club	or spade
South face cornerstone:	Wisdom	diamond	club	spade	or heart

Kathleen Wildwood made a miniature hoogan view showing the four faces and four corners in 3D. This view shows the northeast corner, north face, and northwest corner. I have added the Madrid codex for comparison. You can visit her page by clicking the link.

